HOW JOSE MACEO DIED. Killed at the End of a Long Fight. Special Corr. New York Herald. SANTIAGO DE CUBA, Cuba, July 12, 1896. The most important incident of the last few days is the death of the rebel leader, Jose Maceo, in an engagement between his and Periquito Perez's forces on the 5th instant, in Loma del Gato, and the Spanish columns of General Albert and Colonel Vara del Rey, numbering 1,500 men. The vara dei Rey, numbering 1,500 men. The engagement was a severe one, lasting six hours, both Spaniards and Cubans showing great courage.

The insurgents, owing to the splendid positions they had on the heights of Loma del Gato, defeated the Spanish, who lost more than eighty killed, among them a commander and 160 wounded. Among the latter were one cantain and two lieutenlatter were one captain and two lieuten-ants, very seriously wounded. The rebels had Jose Maceo, Brigadler Cartagena and ten men killed and fifty-nine wounded.

A great many Spanish wounded were brought to this city last night in the train, many others having been left in Songo. The body of Jose Maceo was exposed in state for a day in the coffee plantation Bl-cocas, and was buried on the night of the 6th in the same place where Victorian Garzon lies, between Santa Maria Sabina and La Ysabela.

SUMMER BY THE SEA One Disease and one Remedy

Delightful Weather Favors Visitor to Atlantic City.

FINISHING THE FAMOUS WALK

Well Known Washingtonians Who Promenade Upon It.

NOVEL ATTRACTIONS

Special Correspondence of The Evening Star.

As the torrid, sultry month of July nears its close and the approach of the dreaded dog days draws nearer and nearer the population of the cool and pleasant city-by-thesea becomes more and more summer-like in its proportions and aspect. The weather here has truly been delightful. The thermometer has not exhibited any undue aspirations skyward, and there has been no endeavor made by the sun's rays to see how quicksilver can jump either by a 16 to 1 ratio or anything else. The evenings are particularly delightful and the bathing, boating and fishing are at their best. So cool has it been, in fact, that several times during the past week spring overcoats and light wraps have been desirable accompaniments to a beardwalk promenade. On the other hand, from all accounts, the heat of the larger cities has been something awful. So, given these two conditions, it is not to be wondered at that Atlantic is enjoying the patronage of the heated and want-to-be-cooled-off thousands. All week the trains have been bringin in large consignments of human freight, and the hotels have all a prosperous air

Along the Walk. The population numbers many Washingtonians, a fact which is made apparent by the long list of familiar capital city names upon the hotel registers. Washington is sending an unusual number of guests here now, and this seaward exodus from your city will, in all probability, continue, and even increase, as the season grows stronger and the summer waxes warmer. and the summer waxes warmer.

A walk along the esplanade reveals the presence of a number of well-known Washingtonians there and many pleasant social meetings take place. The wooden railing erected by the city as a temporary guara for the new waik is being torn down, and the ornamental iron railings are being put up. The work was begun Wednesday and up. The work was begun Wednesday and will be completed in a short time. When it is finished Atlantic City will rejoice in the possession of what is undoubtedly the finest walk or esplanade of its kind in the

The craze for novelties along this seaside boulevard continues unabated. One might think that ingenuity had been exhausted and invention dulled in the thousand and one devices for entertaining the pleasure-sceker strewn along the walk, but the desire for "something new" has even again been gratified. Death and its terrors are reproduced for the delectation and delight of the novelty-seekers right at the sea's

A Gruesome Novelty. Many readers of The Star will remember the descriptive stories which came from Paris not so long ago, concerning the famous and somewhat gruesome "cabaret de la more," which held forth on the Boulevard. This was the Cafe of Death, and it has been reproduced on Atlantic City's has been reproduced on Atlantic City's board walk. A building, which somewhat resembles a church on its exterior, and which is simply a long, black hall inside, offers to the jaded traveler the novelty sought. On entering he is confronted by grinning skeletons and fantastic arrangements of cross-bones, which he dimly sees by the light of lamps, which are constructed of skulls. Attendants garbed in somber livery serve refreshments upon tables which are coffins, and the stage entertainment consists of the transformation of a member of the audience into a corpse and back to the quick again. When the visitor leaves he whistles a long note and says; "What next?"

The board walk amusements, until Wed-The board walk amusements, until Wednesday night, have included three somewhat doubtful attractions, which were known as the Turkish Theater, the Grecian Theater and the Living Picture Show. They were all notable for the rather risque performances given therein. On Wednesday night, however, Mayor Stay and the license and police committee of the council readand police committee of the council made a tour of the walk to pass judgment on the "shows" thereof, and after a severe inves-tigation decided that the three mentioned

McKinley's nomination a baby boy was born into the Senft household, and when the news of the Ohio Napoleon's nomination came to hand the little fellow was named "William Mc Kinley," with all due pomp and ceremondy. The father sent a letter to the candidate, telling him the story, and Wednesday's mail brought the following autograph re-

"The art of painting," said Millals, "consists in sclecting the right colors and putting them in the right place."-"The way to win a battle," said Napoleca, "is to mess your troops at the critical non ent against the weakest spot in the enemy's line."-"The way to cure many allments," said the great Dr. Abercrombie, "Is to purify the poisoned spring in which they arise, generally the torpid and inflamed digestive system."

Thus wisdom and experience simplify and condense. Thus the Shakers of Mount Lebanon reasoned when they sought, and finally found, a remedy for indigestion and dyspepsia. Where one person has SOMETHING ELSE, they argued, a thousand have THIS. To cure THIS ALONE will almost rid the world of sickners. Why should we vex ourselver with confusing definitions? A good digestion is life and health; a bad one disease and death. Hence, from the healing and stimulating mountain heris, they extracted the principles which make the Shaker Digestive Cordial the rarest and most effective of medicines FOR ONE DISEASE, AND ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 23. ONE ONLY-indigestion and dyspepsia.

Do you suffer from any of these miserable feelings depression of spirits, heaviness and pain to the stemach after meals, bad taste in the mouth, wind in the bowels, irritable disposition, nervous weakness and alarm, worry and weariness, costive ness or fregularity of the bowels, mausea, palpitation, sick headache, heartburn, loss of appetite

the Writing Habit.

From the Chicago Tribune

There is no class which is more subject to that common malady, the scrib-ling mania, than royalty. The trouble arises in this case from an abundance of leisure and money. The sovereigns, princes or princesses have noticed the attention which ordinary persons attract to themselves by the publication of books, and feel that loyal millions are yearning to hear from them also.

When they see themselves in print they are thrilled. The result is almost inevitable that they repeat the offense. In very few cases have these royal publications the ex-cuse of any literary merit. Perhaps the Queen of Roumania, the poetess "Carmen Sylva," is an exception to this rule, but it is safe to say that her works have not given joy to a very large reading public.
